The Mouse that Barked - In Two Languages

Professional story tellers Sue O'Holloran (left) and "Mama" Edie Armstrong visited with elementary students attending the Title 1 and Title III summer school program at River View Elementary on June 27, 2011 to teach them the importance of cultural awareness and communications.

They told a tale, in both English and Spanish, about a family of mice who barked like dogs to scare away a cat - proving, they said with a laugh, that it's good to know two languages.
